Romanian Cavalry Divisions

ROMANIA'S CAVALRY

Romania started the war with the Soviet Union with six Cavalry Brigades, based on 12 Rosiori and 6 Călărăsi Regiments, while the other 7 Călărăsi Regiments were used for the Reconnaissance units of larger formations. Due to their elite nature they were some of the first units to undergo mechanisation. During the course of the war the Romanian Cavalry underwent substantial organisational change, first motorising some units with trucks and motorcycles and then the expansion of the brigades into divisions in 1942.

In 1942 each Cavalry Division had three cavalry regiments, two were horse mounted and one was motorised. The Romanian cavalry were skilled mounted infantrymen, whether operating from horseback or from motor transport and fulfilled the roll of elite mobile infantry rather than traditional sabre waving cavalry.

Like most European nations to be involved in the wars of the late 19th Century, the Romanians had learnt the lessons of modern combat and retrained their cavalry as mounted infantry before the First World War.

In late December division was asked by Group Hollidt to take over the defence of Chernikov to protect German depots. It defended the position with the 11th Rosiori, 11th Călărăsi and some German infantry. The 7th Cavalry Division repulsed all Soviet attacks and was awarded 28 German 'Iron Crosses'. It defended the position until 2 January and was the last large unit to hold defensive lines on the Chir River. Heavily reduced in strength and missing most of its mounts it returned to Romania with just under 5000 men. It was disbanded in March 1943 and its troops merged with the 1st Cavalry Division.

ROMANIAN SPECIAL RULES

PEASANT ARMY

Romania's huge army was drawn from the rural peasant class, officered by the aristocratic upper class, and disciplined by NCO's using 18th century style corporal punishment. Men were regularly beaten for minor breaches in regulation and discipline. The separation of men, NCO's, and officers even went as far as meals that were supplied in three qualities, with officers, naturally, getting the best. The officers were also responsible for the training of their own units. This led to a great variation in the quality of troops' combat preparedness. The distant relationship between the officers and their largely illiterate men combined with the harsh conditions of army life, and sometimes poor training, led to mixed levels of performance and morale in the field.

To reflect the variable quality of the men and officers' relationship and performance, Romanian platoons are rated as Regular or Elite. After deployment, but before the first turn, roll a die for each Romanian platoon and independent Warrior teams. Consult the Peasant Army table to determine their Skill and Motivation ratings. Platoons held in Reserves do not roll until they arrive.

PEASANT ARMY TABLE

Roll	Regular	Elite
1	Reluctant Trained	Reluctant Trained
2	Reluctant Trained	Reluctant Veteran
3	Reluctant Veteran	Reluctant Veteran
4	Confident Trained	Confident Trained
5	Confident Trained	Confident Veteran
6	Confident Veteran	Confident Veteran

DEFEND THE HOMELAND

Though the Romanian infantryman may have mixed treatment from his officers and NCOs, once in the thick of the fighting he would often fight tenaciously when confronted by the enemy. They were not interested in invading Russia or conquering the world, but to simply fight stubbornly to defend what they already had.

When Romanian platoons test their Motivation to Counterattack in assaults, you may re-roll the die and apply the re-rolled result to all Romanian platoons that failed on the original roll.

FRENCH DOCTRINE

The Romanian troops are trained in the French doctrine of trench warfare. Their operational plan is to make a short deliberate advance under cover of massed artillery fire, then fortify their position to hold it while the artillery comes up to repeat the process. While the advance is slow, it is sure and will eventually result in the defeat of the enemy.

Once entrenched, Romanian infantry set up crossfire positions for every weapon allowing them to take any attack in enfilade.

Romanian Infantry and Gun teams attempting to Dig In succeed on a roll of 3+.

When conducting Defensive Fire, Infantry and Gun teams that are Dug In or in Entrenchments can shoot over any Man-packed or Light Gun teams that are also Dug In or in Entrenchments.

CENTRAL FIRE CONTROL

Like the US Army, the Romanians were great followers of French doctrine during the 1920's and 1930's and their artillery methods reflect this.

Romanian Company Command teams cannot act as spotting teams for Artillery Bombardments.

When a Romanian artillery battery that has a Staff team fires an Artillery Bombardment, any other artillery batteries with Staff teams may join it before rolling to Range In and fire as a single combined Artillery Battery.

EASTERN LEGIONS

While playing a Batalion de Cavalerie, whenever the rules talk about a Platoon read that as a Cavalerie Company. Where the rules talk about a Company, read that as a Batalion de Cavalerie.

GERMAN ALLIES

Romanian companies can have German Heer troops as support options. These platoons retain their own rules and ratings, counting as Allied Platoons (see page 70 of the rulebook).

MOTIVATION AND SKILL

Romania has three armies on the Russian Front, contributing more men to the conflict than any other Axis power except Germany. A Batalion de Cavalerie is rated as Elite.

The Romanian cavalry is traditionally divided into the Călărăsi and Rosiori, but by WWII any organisational or training differences had disappeared. The 12 Rosiori and six Călărăsi Regiments made up the six cavalry divisions while the other seven Călărăsi Regiments provided the cavalry for the infantry and higher formations.

OPTIONS

- Replace Command Rifle/MG team with a Command Vanator de Care Rifle/MG team for +5 points.
- Add 60mm Brandt mortars for +20 points per mortar.
- Add Machine-gun platoon for +105 points.

Modern cavalry are not the shock arm as they were of days gone by, though they are still more than capable of the odd dashing charge. Now they are like the old fashion dragoons and fight as mounted infantry. They are just as comfortable fighting dismounted as they are on horseback.

They would often hold defensive positions alongside the infantry or, as happened during the fighting in Crimea, be forced to fight on foot because of a lack of horses.

VANATOR DE CARE

To deal with Soviet tanks Romanian troops would often arm a few brave men from their company with satchel charges, anti-tank mines, Molotov cocktails and other improvised close-assault anti-tank weapons. The Vanator de Care (tank hunter) has to be a brave man, he knows that an assault on a enemy tank could quite easily become his last.

The cavalry are the elite of the Romanian army. They are mobile, highly trained and motivated. The cavalry proved time and time again some of the toughest troops in the Romanian forces.

Each company comes with ZB53 heavy machine-guns and 60mm mortars to provide the rest of the company with plenty of fire support. These support weapons are mounted so they can keep pace to the cavalry troopers.

The machine-gun troops of the cavalry provide an important role in any battle plan. Being mounted on horse allows them to keep pace with the cavalry, but they must still dismount their ZB53 HMGs to provide fire support.

A Cavalerie Machine-gun Platoon may make Combat Attachments to Cavalerie Companies.

OPTIONS

- Add Observer Rifle team for +15 points.
- Add Cavalry limbers at +5 points for the platoon.
- Mount Command and Observer Rifle teams as Cavalry for +5 points per team.

The mortar platoons provide mobile artillery support for a cavalry battalion. When limbered they are able to keep up with the cavalry. They dismount and deliver supporting fire when they need to.

OPTION

- Mount Command Rifle teams as Cavalry for +5 points.

A Cavalerie Anti-tank Company uses the Horse Artillery movement special rule (page 118 of the rulebook).

The Romanians armed the anti-tank platoons of their cavalry with Soviet 45mm obr 1937 anti-tank guns captured in 1941.

Divisional Support

MOTIVATION AND SKILL

Romania's Cavalry Divisions are their very best infantry and fight with great determination. Divisional Support Platoons are rated as Elite.

TANCURI PLATOON

PLATOON

3 T-38 (Panzer 38(t))

125 points

In March 1943 a tank battalion, equipped with 50 old German T-38 tanks (CKD LT VZ 38 or Panzer 38 (t) tanks), was sent to the front to reinforce the Cavalry Corps and the Mountain Corps in the Kuban region east of Crimea.

It had three companies (51st, 52nd and 53rd) each 15 tanks strong. Five tanks were kept in reserve for replacements as these old tanks had seen a lot of service and were not always reliable. After the retreat from the Taman bridgehead, the battalion was used in the fighting in Crimea in late 1943. It returned to Romania in early in 1944, with only ten tanks still operational.

VANATORI DE MUNTE COMPANY

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

3 Vanatori Platoons	320 points
2 Vanatori Platoons	220 points
1 Vanatori Platoon	120 points

OPTIONS

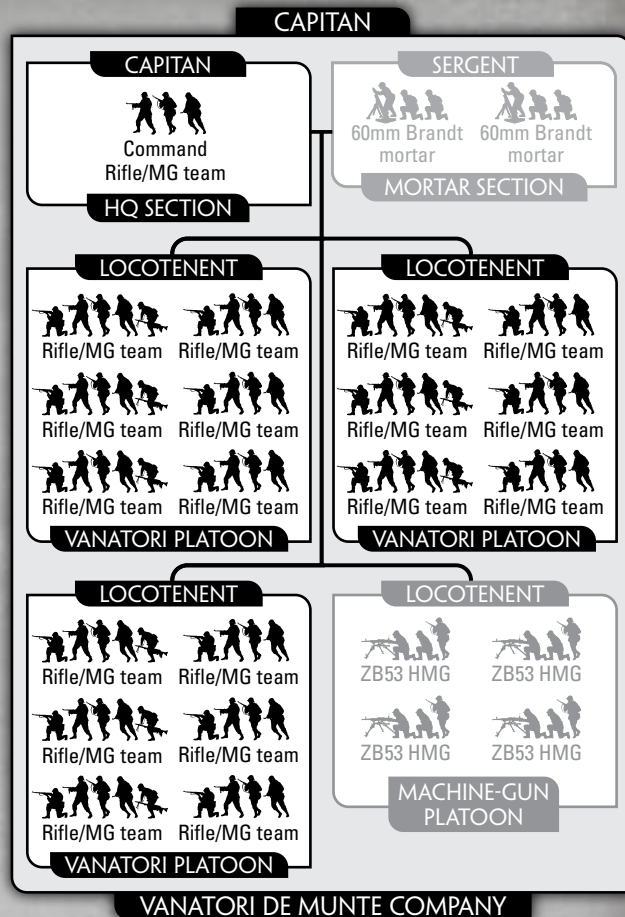

- Replace Command Rifle/MG team with a Command Vanator de Care Rifle/MG team for +5 points.
- Add 60mm Brandt mortars for +20 points per mortar.
- Add Machine-gun platoon for +105 points.

The hard fighting Vanatori de Munte of the mountain infantry are equipped with rifles and ZB30 light machine-guns. Each company also has supporting ZB53 heavy machine-guns and 60mm mortars.

While fighting in the Crimea the Vanatori de Munte fought with honour alongside their German allies. Their higher levels of moral and training allow them to be more flexible and aggressive on attack or defence.

VANATOR DE CARE

To deal with Soviet tanks Romanian troops would often arm a few brave men from their company with satchel charges, anti-tank mines, Molotov cocktails and other improvised close-assault anti-tank weapons. The Vanator de Care (tank hunter) has to be a brave man, he knows that an assault on an enemy tank could quite easily become his last.

Vanatori de Munte Companies are Mountaineers, see page 61 of the rulebook.

MOTORISED CAVALRY PLATOON

PLATOON

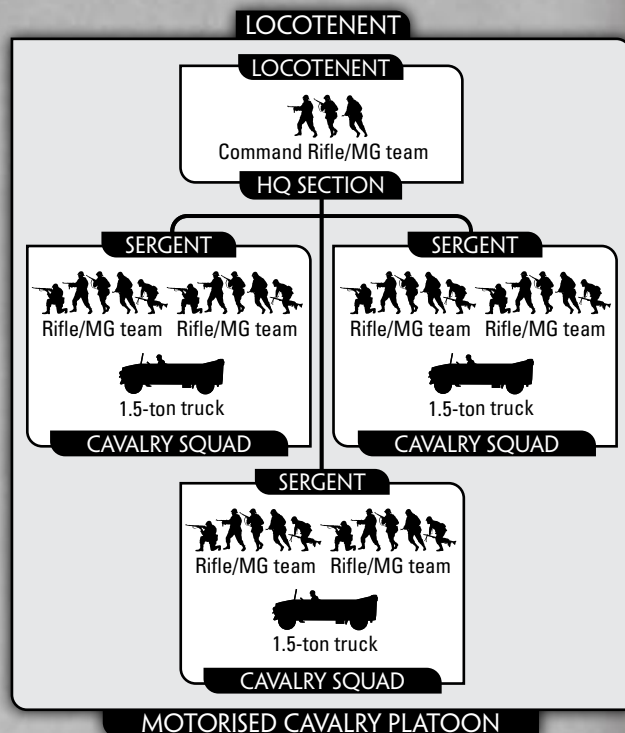

HQ Section with:

3 Cavalry Squads	125 points
2 Cavalry Squads	90 points

OPTIONS

- Replace Command Rifle/MG team with a Command Vanator de Care Rifle/MG team for +5 points.
- Replace all 1.5-ton trucks with motorcycle & side-cars per Rifle/MG team for +5 points.

In 1941 the Romanians started a plan to motorise their cavalry. By 1942 the motorised cavalry brigades consisted of three cavalry regiments, two of horse-mounted cavalry and one of cavalry with trucks and motorcycles.

PIONEER PLATOON

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

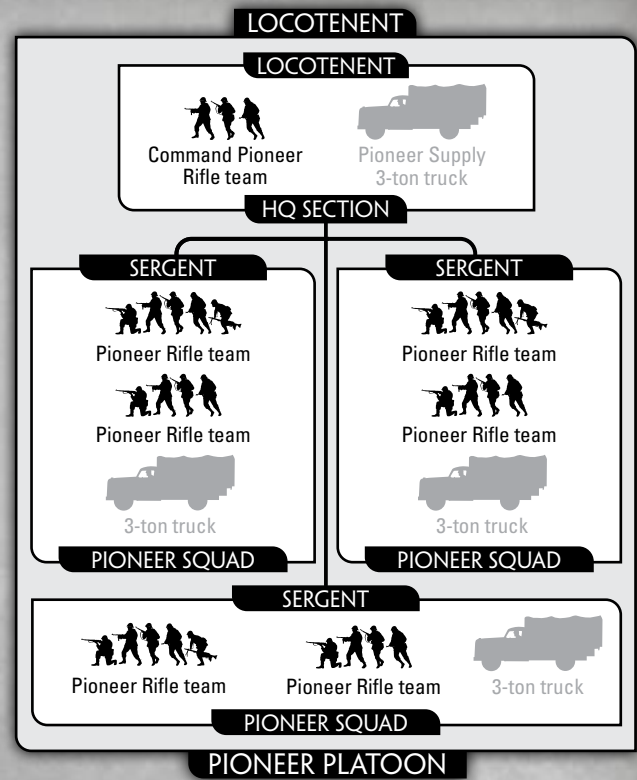

3 Pioneer Squads	130 points
2 Pioneer Squads	95 points

OPTIONS

- Replace all Pioneer Rifle teams with Pioneer Rifle/MG teams for +10 points per Pioneer Squad.
- Replace all Pioneer Rifle teams with Pioneer SMG teams for +10 points per Pioneer Squad.
- Add 3-ton trucks for +5 points for the platoon.
- Add Pioneer Supply 3-ton truck for +25 points.

You may replace up to one Pioneer Rifle, Rifle/MG or SMG team per Pioneer Squad with a Flame-thrower team at the start of the game before deployment.

Romania's motorised combat pioneers are some of the best trained and equipped troops in service. They can knockout bunkers, destroy tanks or clear minefields.

CAVALERIE SCOUT PLATOON

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

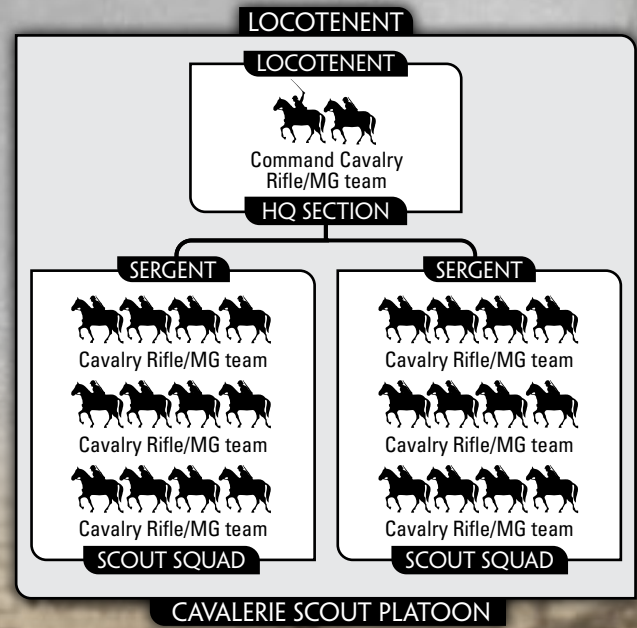

2 Scout Squads	180 points
1 Scout Squad	100 points

OPTION

- Replace Command Cavalry Rifle/MG team with a Command Cavalry Vanator de Care Rifle/MG team for +5 points.

The mounted scouts provide the reconnaissance for the cavalry divisions. These hand picked mounted troopers are fast and can seek out the enemy's intentions and uncover his ambushes with expert observation.

A Cavalerie Scout Platoon is a Reconnaissance Platoon.

CAVALERIE HEAVY MORTAR COMPANY

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

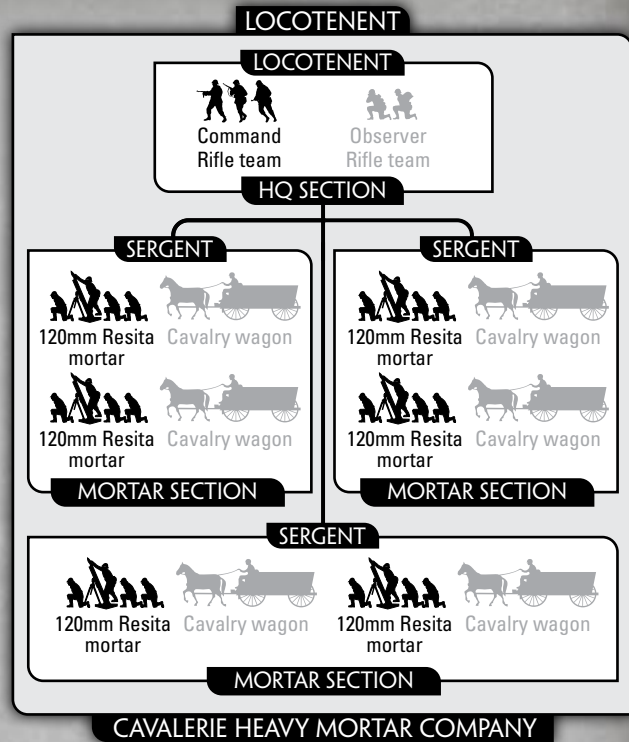

3 Mortar Sections	205 points
2 Mortar Sections	140 points
1 Mortar Section	75 points

OPTIONS

- Add Observer Rifle team for +15 points.
- Add cavalry wagons at no cost.

The cavalry division were supplied with captured Soviet 120mm mortars and later with Romanian Resita copies. The 120mm mortars are transported in light wagons designed to keep up with the cavalry. The 120mm mortars are easy to setup and can be put into action quickly.

They provide excellent indirect fire capable of knocking out entrenched enemy and the occasional vehicle.

CAVALERIE ANTI-AIRCRAFT PLATOON

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

2 Anti-aircraft Sections	85 points
--------------------------	-----------

OPTION

- Add cavalry wagons at no cost.

Anti-aircraft cover for cavalry is provided by the divisional anti-tank company armed with the 13.2mm Hotchkiss model 1931 anti-aircraft machine-gun. This anti-aircraft machine-gun was mounted on a seated tripod much like the Italian Breda.

AIR SUPPORT

SPORADIC AIR SUPPORT

Ju 87D Stuka	100 points
Hs 129B	115 points

The Romanian air force (Forțele Aeriene Regale ale României or FARR) used a wide variety of aircraft for bombing and ground attack. Included among these was the German Ju 87D, the first of which arrived with the FARR in 1943. They also began flying Hs 129Bs in August 1943.

HORSE ARTILLERY BATTALION

2 Gun Batteries with:
8 KF 75mm (75/27) 220 points

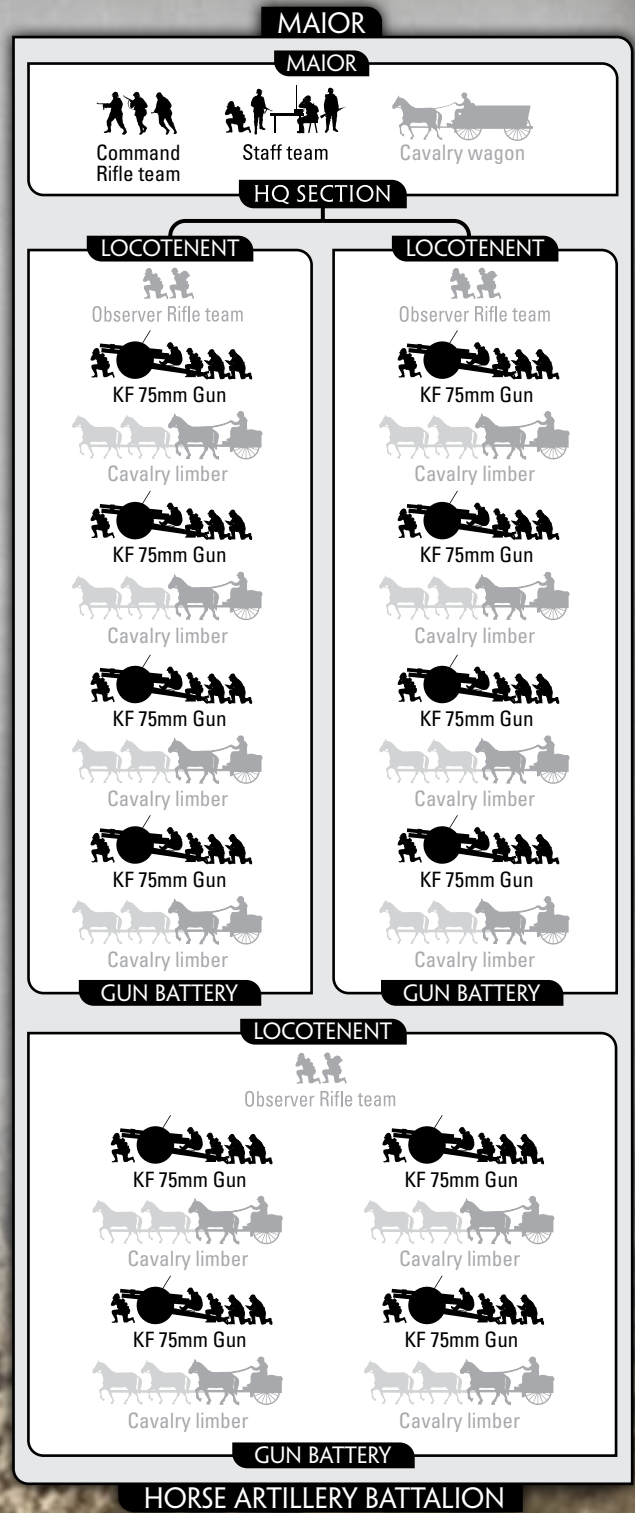

1 Gun Battery with:
4 KF 75mm (75/27) 120 points

OPTIONS

- Add Observer Rifle teams for +15 points per gun battery.
- Add cavalry wagon and cavalry limbers at no cost.
- Mount Command and Observer Rifle teams as Cavalry for +5 points per team.

The horse artillery are provided with more horses to allow them to keep pace with the cavalry. They are also trained to get into action as quickly as possible. They gallop into action, swinging the limber around at the last moment to unhitch and get the gun ready to fire in just moments.

A Horse Artillery Battalion uses the Horse Artillery movement special rule (page 118 of the rulebook).

German Support

MOTIVATION AND SKILL

The Romanians fight alongside the Germans and will often call on them to provide support. German platoons supporting the Romanians are always rated Confident Veteran and follow the German special rules on pages 241 to 245 of the rulebook.

They are Allies to the Romanians and follow the Allies rules on page 70 of the rulebook.

- Replace all 3-ton trucks with Sd Kfz 10 or Sd Kfz 11 half-tracks for +5 points for the platoon.

There were never enough of the powerful 7.5cm PaK40 anti-tank gun, so the infantry divisions had to make do with the 7.5cm PaK97/38, an old French gun mounted on a PaK38 chassis or captured Russian 7.62cm guns rechambered for German ammunition.

GRENADIER PLATOON

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

2 Grenadier Squads	110 points

OPTIONS

- Replace Command Rifle/MG team with a Command Panzerknacker SMG team for +5 points.
- Add Light Mortar team for +15 points.
- Add 3-ton trucks for +5 points for the platoon.

The grenadiers of the German infantry are seasoned campaigners having tasted victory in Poland, France, the Balkans, and now Byelorussia and the Ukraine. They have performed their duties to the Fatherland with the utmost of efficiency and are ready to continue their march to the East.

Though well-manned and full capable, the sheer enormity of their task at hand means their value must not be squandered foolishly.

MOTORISED ARTILLERY BATTERY

PLATOON

HQ Section with:

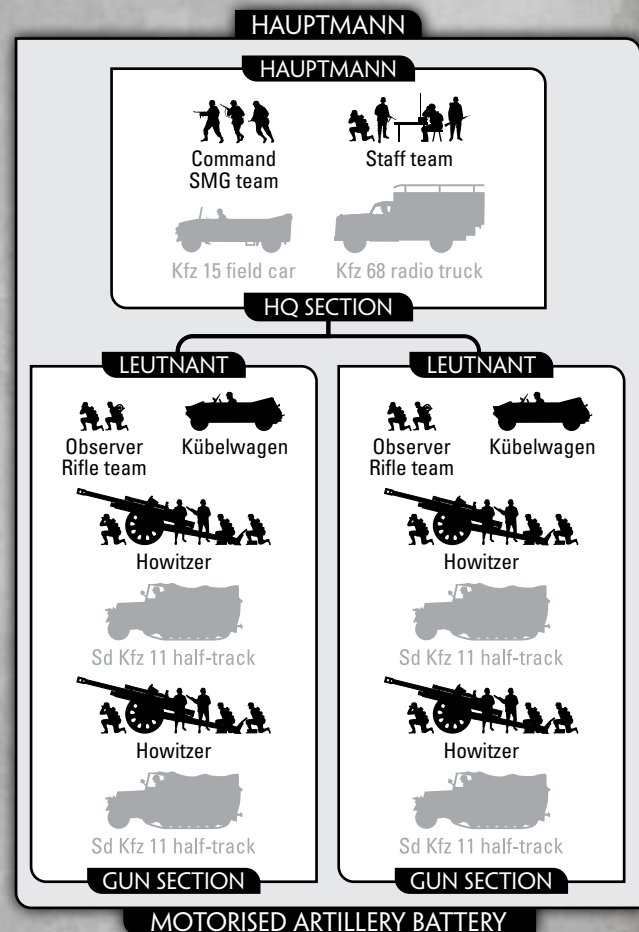

4 10.5cm leFH18	245 points
2 10.5cm leFH18	130 points

OPTIONS

- Add Kfz 15 field car, Kfz 68 radio truck and Sd Kfz 11 or Sd Kfz 7 half-tracks for +5 points for the battery.
- Replace all Kübelwagen jeeps with Sd Kfz 250 or 253 half-tracks for +5 points.

Towed artillery provides a good balance between cost and effectiveness. Because of its mobility, motorised artillery was often repositioned to support Romanian troops during critical attacks and to hold off Soviet breakthroughs.
